ISSUE 184

I have come that they may have life and have it to the full.
John 10 v 10

While I was pondering what to write for The Messenger I came across the above verse. We have recently celebrated the birth of Jesus, at Christmas, a new life. We then celebrated the new year, a new start. God gives us the chance of a new life and a new start in His Son, Jesus.

Soon it will be springtime (honest, it will!!) The plants, flowers and trees will have new growth with buds opening into bursts of different colours. For the winter, they have been asleep in the ground, waiting for springtime when they can begin to show their beauty.

We can be a bit like the plants, flowers and trees. We are asleep, unaware of what God can make of our lives, if only we put our trust in Him. He will awaken us to our springtime, showing His beauty through us, just like He does with the plants, flowers and trees. We just need to let Him take over, giving us life in its fulness, guiding us to help others who may be 'asleep' to understand the joy of their springtime.

God's richest blessings to you all,

Margaret Bateson

Opening and Door Stewards Rota

As has been previously stated in the Messenger, it is important that the Church and Main Hall buildings are NOT left unattended whilst they are unlocked. To try and avoid this situation the Deacons have requested that both the premises opener and the Door Stewards for the Sunday Services should try and co-ordinate their activities so that when the front door to the church is open the porch/sanctuary is 'manned'. It would be useful for both these persons to arrive at approx 10.00am.

The deadline for the next issue of the Messenger (April/May) will be the 9th March.

If you have any items/articles that you would like to see in the Messenger, please don't be afraid to pass them on to me. If you're not sure who I am, you can usually find me at the front of the church playing the cornet.

Also, I thought it might be a nice idea to include more reports from other aspects of the life of the church ie: The Sunday Night Project, Friday Morning Prayer and Praise, Small Groups, etc. Really anything that is going on in the church that you would like other people to know about (it's not only our own members that read the magazine!).

Also, if anyone wishes to submit any articles taken from magazines, books etc., could you please supply them with details of where they came from (name of publication, author, name of publishers etc.) basically any information that would enable me to acquire permission to reprint the article. It may sound a bit much, but it's all down to copyright issues.

If you wish to send any article by email, they can be sent to messenger@stanleyroad.org.uk

Greetings

It is some time since you last heard from me, and as some of you know, there have been a few changes since then, as you will see by the new address - Homebreeze House, Flat 26, Beech Street, Bare.

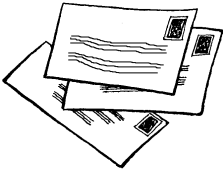

I have been very lucky to sell my bungalow, a very stressful occupation at 95 and after 35 years in the same house, it almost killed us all but am very happy here and made the right decision.

My thanks to all for their cards, phone calls and visits, for which I am very grateful. They have been very welcome, to Rosemary and Miss Riley for church news and 'Messengers'.

I wish you all a peaceful and happy new year.

Car Drivers Urgently Required

With more and more of our members struggling to get to church due to ill health, especially in the winter, we are feeling the need for possibly forming a “car lifts rota/service!” This already takes place, to some extent, but the few drivers currently helping in this way are becoming increasingly stretched and overburdened, and there is a need for a few more cars and drivers to help out. If there are any drivers with cars who would be willing to transport one or two folk to and from church, each week, or some weeks, we would be delighted to hear from you; also someone to co-ordinate the service would be very helpful. We’d love to hear from you if you think you could help.

Thanks so much. (on behalf of the managing trustees)

Pastoral Care during the interregnum

One of the strengths of Stanley Road Church is the pastoral care. The church is great at looking after people. Generally though the pastoral care has been a bit ad. hoc. Everyone just gets on with it. That is something to be celebrated, well done!

However, in preparation for the interregnum we have brought together a team of people who are involved in Pastoral visiting people and taking them communion when they can’t make it to church regularly. They will meet up regularly just to make sure no one is being missed. If you know of someone who needs a visit on behalf of the church please contact one of the Deacons or a member of the pastoral care team: Rosie Gee, Pauline Elder, Sue Parker, or Margaret Bateson.

Greetings

Hi, we firstly want to wish all our friends at Stanley Road a belated, but very happy and blest new year, and all the best for 2011.

Secondly, we wanted to say how sorry we are for not being in touch before now. The reason is that we were let down very badly by Talk Talk, and our Broadband, which was supposed to be up and running when we moved in October, was still not connected at the end of the year, so in desperation we changed to BT and finally went live two days ago. Hallelujah! All this time, we have been unable to send or receive e-mails, and have felt completely out of touch. Our particular apologies to anyone who has sent us e-mails, and not heard back from us. Hope you now understand why!

We are loving living in Sedbergh. The apartment is snug, comfortable and warm, and felt like home from the moment we moved in. The village is great, with all we need close at hand, and we are making new friends already. It is so good living close to our daughter, and several grandchildren, as well as Jonathan and his family. We are also enjoying being so close to such beautiful countryside. The supported housing complex which we are a part of is great, and we enjoy community events, especially over Christmas. The wardens are lovely people, and very supportive. We have started attending Sedbergh Methodist Church, which is the only really evangelical church in the town. It is still early days, but they have been very welcoming and we are slowly starting to meet people.

When we finally did receive all our e-mails a couple of days ago, several of you were asking for our address and phone number, (even though we had put it in the Messenger) so here it is again - 1, Maryfell, Sedbergh, Cumbria, LA10 5AR. Tel: 015396 21141.

We do miss all our friends in Morecambe, as well as the events at the church, we send our love and greetings to everyone there and will hope to stay in touch a bit more now we are back on line. We pray for God's blessing on the church and fellowship, and for great things to happen in the coming months.

Once again, a very happy new year, and much love,

Merv and Gill

Romance, love, marriage and all that stuff - the way children see it....

How do you decide whom to marry?

You got to find somebody who likes the same stuff. Like, if you like sports, she should like it that you like sports, and she should keep the crisps and dip coming. - Alan, age 10

Prayer for Mission

I'm sat in Wacky Warehouse (fun house at the Platform) writing this, watching Lillie and other children playing and having so much fun. It makes me think of other children who are not so lucky. Children in countries who are starving, places where there is no fresh water, homes where there is no love and possible violence, children who suffer from serious illnesses, children whose parents are going through a divorce. I would like to pray for children everywhere who are struggling with all sorts of problems.

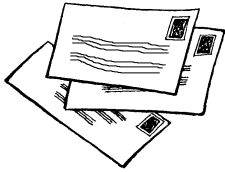

Please look after them all Lord and keep them close to you.

Thank you

God bless

Sunday Night Project

Hi everyone.

On Remembrance Sunday we had a meat and potato pie supper followed by apple pie and custard. We raised 50 pounds for the British Legion. It was a very enjoyable evening and everyone helped. On Sunday 21st November we had a games night at the Cumberland View Hotel. There was lots of fun and laughter as we tried to play different card games. Then in December, Steven and Gail did a fantastic job at the Christmas party with games for the children and adults. A big thank you to everyone who helped and of course, santa, for making it such a great party.

We have all sorts of plans for future evenings. Please come and join us any Sunday. The first Sunday in the month we always have a quiz at the Cumberland View Hotel. Thanks to all our friends at the Sunday Night Project for all their support. They are a great team of people.

Thanks everyone,

Kath and Marcia

The following poem is taken from the book of poems, "Reflections", with kind permission of Doreen Turner, the authoress.

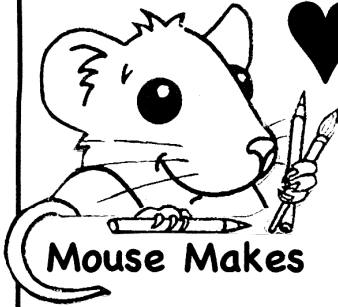

My Purpose In Life

How can God use me, what does He want of me?
He made me for a purpose when His Son died upon that tree.
God made me in His image, He sent His only Son
To show me by example to give love to everyone.
I must listen to the hurting, care and feed the needy lost,
To give until it hurts and not to count the cost.
I must always use my tongue to praise and not to criticise,
Ask God for discernment, walk with Him and gain the prize.
Although the road is narrow, God says "Just take my Hand.
I will lead you, I will guide you to my promised heavenly land."

"Reflections" consists of 12 of Doreen's poems, and a copy can be obtained from Doreen Turner or Rosie Gee. Donations to the Monday Friendship Group.

February is the month of romance. Millions of Valentine cards will be sent in the next week or two, as we celebrate our romantic love for that special person in our lives. But there are other kinds of love to celebrate: and on Candlemas we remember Mary and Joseph taking their baby son to the temple to present him to God. Jesus' whole life was a loving present to us from God. Through his death for us on the cross, and his resurrection, his love can now transform anyone's life. Romances can die, but God's love for us is always there. But it won't do us much good – unless we accept it!

Innovation in Winter

Stoenesti and Uzunu may not be towns in which you've spent a lot of time (or even ones you've heard of!) but, if you're a BMS supporter, you are having an impact there.

Through our partners, the European Baptist Federation (EBF), BMS World Mission supports a pastor in the small Romanian towns (or 'communes' as they are known there), of Stoenesti and Uzunu.

Pastor Daniel Gherman is one of six indigenous EBF mission workers supported by BMS grants, working in their own communities to share the good news of Christ. He has been using innovative means to grow his church and evangelise his community.

When harsh winter weather started making travel between Uzunu (where he is based) and Stoenesti (just five miles away) impossible, Pastor Daniel's church ministered to their brothers and sister by phone.

When it became clear, around Pentecost, that several of their church family were finding it difficult to attend Sunday morning services because of ill-health, Pastor Daniel initiated a programme in which every second week's service would take place in the home of one of his poorly congregation.

Through this ministry, people who would not otherwise have attended church have been present at Pastor Daniel's 'home services'. The numbers of non-Christians attending services now continue to grow.

Public airings of Christian films, a music ministry to children in the less busy winter months (involving guitar, mandolin and keyboard), Sunday school, evening prayer meetings and afternoon services are all part of Pastor Daniel's toolkit, and his wife and 19-year-old son are key helpers in his ministry.

Pastor Daniel "sends many blessings and thanks for the financial support and prayers” of all who have enabled his ministry to continue. And if you are a BMS supporter, that means you.

BMS supports five other indigenous mission workers through the EBF, in Lithuania, Serbia, Russia and Ukraine.

Daniel Trusiewicz, EBF Mission Co-ordinator, says of the programme: “Our experience confirms that indigenous missionaries are the most effective in evangelistic and church planting ministry among their people,” and asks that British Christians pray that new churches will be planted in European nations that may be materially underprivileged, but are full of spiritual potential.

God’s army

Dewey was in front of me coming out of church one day, and the minister was standing at the door, as he always is, to shake hands. Suddenly he grabbed Dewey by the hand and pulled him aside. The minister said sternly “Dewey, you need to join the Army of the Lord!”

Dewey replied, “I’m already in the Army of the Lord, Pastor.” The minister retorted: “Then how come I don’t see you except at Christmas and Easter?” Dewey replied in a whisper: “Well, I’m in the secret service.”

Burundians get help to recover from civil war

18 January 2011

Thousands of people are being helped by Tearfund in Burundi to recover from the effects of more than a decade of civil war.

Some 300,000 people died in the conflict that ended in 2005 and since then Tearfund partners have been working to rebuild shattered lives.

Restoring livelihoods has been key in a country where ways of earning a living were badly disrupted by war and 80 per cent of the 8.5 million population live on less than US$1.25 a day.

Tearfund-backed projects are being undertaken in three provinces, Gatumba, Rutana and Ngozi.

In Gatumba, close to the border with the Democratic Republic of Congo, our partner Scripture Union is running credit and savings schemes.

Working with local churches, they are enabling locals to start small businesses. Among them is Leoncie, a widow living with HIV.

Help for vulnerable

Previously she didn't have a steady income to support her four children, the youngest of which was just four years old.

Leoncie joined her local church group which was running a savings scheme. Struggling to find employment, the group helped her find work so she could pay-in regularly.

After six months, she had saved enough to access a loan and start a small business selling eggs. The loan enabled her to buy ten chickens and soon afterwards she was able to repay the money and expand her business.

The profits from the venture are enabling Leoncie to feed her children every day and to send them to school.

Emmanuel Murangira, Tearfund’s Country Representative for Burundi, said, ‘Groups like the one that Leoncie is a member of are identifying the most vulnerable in their communities and helping them to start income-generating projects.

‘In turn these projects are enabling people who’ve been badly affected by years of conflict to lift themselves out of poverty.’

Off to the vet

In his younger days our golden retriever Catcher often ran away when he had the chance. The vet’s surgery was about a mile down the road, and Catcher would usually go there. The nursing staff knew him and would call me to come pick him up. One day I called the vet to make an appointment for Catcher’s yearly vaccine. “Will you bring him,” asked the receptionist, “or will he come on his own?”

A mother's loving journey

MAF pilot Justin Honaker reports from mountainous Lesotho:

Amanda and I say our goodbye for the day and I climb on my bike for the short ride to work. After a brief meeting and prayer, it's time for pre-flight check.

Meanwhile, M'e' Manontlahla's day started about the same time as ours. She was getting her new baby ready to make the journey to the health outpost at Matsile.

It's Thursday and the plane will be coming today. With a two hour walk ahead, there is little time to spare.

Completing the pre-flight, I see the Primary Health Care (PHC) Team of the Lesotho Flying Doctor Service (LFDS) is on my passenger manifest this morning: M'e' Leonia and M'e' Pumane. Their mission today: family planning and counselling, and immunisations.

Me' Manontlahla is already at the health outpost in Matsile when the airplane circles overhead for landing. However, even from the airstrip, there's still a forty-five minute hike to the clinic.

Ordinarily we would drop the PHC Team off in the morning and pick them up in the afternoon. Today, with high winds forecast, we decide to stay with the team so that an afternoon landing is avoided. If we fail to land to collect them, the team will spend the night in a poorly-equipped-for-overnight-guests clinic! It's a good thing we landed when we did!. Before I could even get the plane tied down the wind picked up, making landing now highly unlikely.

Having arrived early, M'e' Manontlahla is the first patient of the day. She's walked two hours to have her newborn son immunised. Little Nontlahla does not make a sound as M'e' Leonia administers the shots. I scarcely have time to take a photo and ask questions before she's gone, heading back home. Just four days ago she gave birth to this healthy baby boy!

Long-term commitment

About 22 children are immunised during the day, with counselling and family planning services offered to about the same number of women.

Hiking back to the plane, I learn that M'e' Pumane has been flying with LFDS for 10 years now, and M'e' Leonia 20! M'e' Leonia tells me she enjoys flying. M'e' Pumane scoffs and tells me she does not sleep the night before flying.

It's humbling to see their commitment to serve their fellow countrymen.

M'e' Manonthahla's village is on the departure path of Matsile. I imagine she has made it home by the time we circle in our climb to 12,500 feet.

Fact-file

Matsile is a small village in the Qacha's Neck District of Lesotho. By air it is about a 40-minute flight. The road from the capital city literally ends a two-hour walk outside of Matsile.

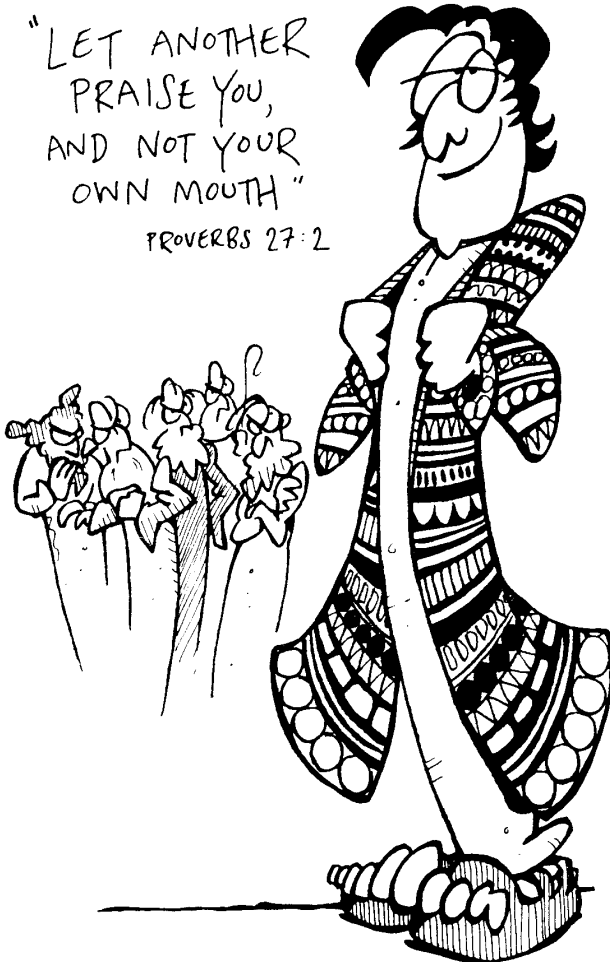

From a public health standpoint, Matsile and the surrounding area is an extremely difficult place to provide healthcare. The plane makes administering basic health care that much more accessible to people like M'e' Manontlahla.

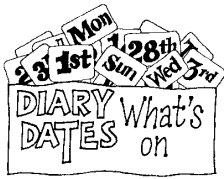

M'e' is directly translated "mother". It is a term of respect for women of "marriable" age.

Coasting my bicycle into our driveway, Amanda is there to greet me. I am excited to tell her about my day and meeting M'e' Manontlahla and her son.

Call for prayer

Lord, we praise You for placing us where we can impact people's lives for the better. Help us to be good stewards of those we come in contact with. Show us ways to not only care for physical needs, but spiritual needs as well. Amen.
